ATTENTION SOCIAL WORKERS: PROTECT YOUR MOST VALUABLE ASSET - YOU!

Individual Professional Liability Insurance for Social Workers
You're good at what you do, you're careful, and you believe in the innate goodness in people. Because of this, you believe you don't need individual professional liability protection. Unfortunately, in these litigious times, the chances of you getting sued are increasing.

Without the right malpractice protection, you're risking everything you've worked so hard to achieve, placing your career, your personal assets and your family's financial future in serious danger. So why would you take the risk of practicing your profession without protecting your most valuable asset - YOU?

Remember, all it takes is one lawsuit-

Employer provided coverage may not adequately protect you.
Often, an employer's policy is designed to protect their interests first. With your own professional liability insurance policy, you will have the benefit of representation that is focused on your interests first.

Through HPSO, you're covered with more than professional liability protection.
You get up to $1,000,000 each claim, up to $3,000,000 aggregate professional liability coverage plus many value-added coverage features included in the policy. Among them-

Disciplinary Defense Coverage. Most employers, by and large, do not provide this in their plan. If your employer, or a client complains about you to the Board responsible for defining the standards of practice for your license, certification or registration, it can result in hearings and a trial. Even if the complaint is dismissed, you could still be left with hefty attorney fees.

Personal Injury Protection. This feature covers you, up to the applicable limits of liability, from charges of slander, libel, assault and battery and perhaps most important for your counseling profession, privacy violation. With patient privacy and HIPAA being in the spotlight right now, this coverage is invaluable.
